SEVERANCE OF DIPLOMATIC RELATIONS WITH JAPAN DEMANDED

Jack Crawford, above, 1932 Wimbledon champion, reached the last 16 yesterday with a comfortable win over K. C. Gandar Dower.

ISLANDS IN PACIFIC OCCUPATION BY AMERICA DIPLOMATIC ACTION PENDING

London, To-day. A curious situation has arisen as the result of the United States' claiming three British islands in the Pacific, namely, Baker, Jarvis and Howland. The islands are barren coral formations administered by the Colonial Office, but are leased to an Australian firm of merchants and shipowners. They are important to the United States for the development of the Pacific air route. It is reported that an American cutter landed 12 American school-boys from Honolulu, four on each island, and hoisted the American flag. Whitehall is now considering the question of diplomatic action.—Reuter.

NEW MINISTER AT TEHRAN

London, To-day. — H. M. the King has approved the appointment of Mr. Horace Seymour, Counsellor in the Foreign Office, to be His Majesty's Minister at Teheran, in succession to Sir Hugh Knatchbull-Hugessen, who has been appointed Ambassador in China.—British Wireless Service.

ROUSING FAREWELL FOR NEGUS AT VICTORIA DETHRONED EMPEROR LEAVES LONDON FOR GENEVA

London, To-day. — Amid cries of "Good luck — God bless you" from a cheering crowd, to which he responded in dignified fashion, the Negus departed from Victoria station yesterday for Geneva. At the moment of departure he conveyed his heartfelt thanks to the British people for their strikingly manifested sympathy. The Ethiopian Legation, in a statement on Mr. Anthony Eden's one-hour interview with the Emperor on Tuesday, mentions that the Emperor intimated his decision vigorously to protest at Geneva against the raising of sanctions and to urge stronger measures.—Reuter's Bulletin Service.

MAJORITY RULES ABOLISHED DEMOCRATIC NATIONAL CONVENTION IN U.S. ELECTION PROGRAMME DECIDED

Philadelphia, To-day. After an all-night sitting the Rules Committee of the Democratic National Convention decided by 36 votes to 12 to abolish the rule that a majority of two-thirds of the delegates is necessary to nominate Presidential candidates, but in order to pacify the opposition it was prepared to recommend the re-apportionment of the delegates for future conventions. The Platform Committee also broke up at dawn after an all-night deliberation on the Party's election programme. The members were pledged to strict secrecy, pending President Roosevelt's approval of their efforts.

NEW CZECH LAWS COMPLAINT MADE BY HUNGARY TREATMENT OF MINORITIES

Prague, To-day. As the repercussions of the new Czechoslovakian National Defence Law in the neighbouring States, whose national minorities will be most profoundly affected, are now making themselves felt in Prague itself, the Foreign Minister, M. Krala, made a statement yesterday before the Committee for Foreign Affairs of the Czechoslovakian House of Deputies, answering the public statements recently made by the Hungarian Foreign Minister, M. Kanya. The cause of the present tension lies in that provision of the law declaring a strip of territory along all frontiers, 25 km. wide, to be a differentiated zone, within which only persons "politically reliable" are allowed to reside, own businesses, undertake building and exercise important economic functions, such as banking. It is feared that, as the great majority of the Sudeten Germans and Hungarians live in that stipulated zone, the law might be misused to cause a wholesale dispossession of businesses and property, especially as the amount of indemnity payable is left to the discretion of a body over which Parliament has no control, and against whose decision there is no appeal. COMPLAINT WELCOMED M. Kanya declared before the Hungarian Upper House recently that the Hungarian Government (Continued on Page 14)

It is reported that the chief problem was the wages and hours plank. The party leaders want a pledge which will satisfy the Liberals and Labour without specifically committing the party to the hazards of a campaign to amend the constitution so as to enable the Federal or State Governments to enforce laws regulating the maximum hours and minimum wages. Governor Landon has already pledged himself to support a constitutional amendment giving States the right to make such legislation.

LIVELY FIST FIGHT Later: The police were called upon to restore order last evening at the meeting of the Democratic Party Convention, when Roosevelt and Alfred Smith supporters came to blows. The Smith faction was ejected after a lively fist fight.—Reuter.

NEW BILLS IN FRANCE Funds For Olympic Contestants

Paris, To-day. The French Cabinet in its meeting yesterday decided to introduce bills in the Chamber providing for the allocation of 1,000,000 francs for the French Olympic participants and 600,000 francs for competitors in the Labour Games at Barcelona. On the proposal of the Minister for Defence, M. Daladier, the Cabinet also resolved to ask Parliament for credits for improving the rationing in the army and navy, and for doubling the pay of soldiers and sailors, who at present only receive 25 centimes daily. The Cabinet has also approved of the Defence Minister's Bill for nationalisation of the armaments industry, as well as the Premier's bill for giving credits for public works, with the object of improving France's industrial equipment.—Trans-Ocean Service.

NEW CABLE FOR PEAK TRAM

A new cable for the Peak Tram, 5,000 feet in length and weighing five tons, which arrived in the Colony last week by the s.s. Antenor, was this morning brought across the harbour from Holt's Wharf and deposited in the Peak Tramway Co's godown at the lower station.

Sports cables will be found on Page 10.

Part of the immense crowd that attended the funeral of Pascual Diaz, Archbishop of Mexico, is here shown as the body was being taken to the cathedral in Mexico City. The entire diplomatic corps walked in the cortege, and in the absence of Ambassador Daniels, of the United States, Counsellor Pierre Legarde and Third Secretary Stephen Aguirre represented America.

GREATEST DEMOCRATIC PLATFORM PRESENTED FULL DETAILS OF MANIFESTO

Philadelphia, To-day. The platform, described by Senator Wagner, who had charge of its drafting, as "the greatest Democratic platform ever presented to the people," has been put before the Democratic Convention. President Roosevelt, to whom it was telephoned, approved of the platform, which contains no direct proposal for amendment of the constitution. The platform declares that it is a self-evident truth that modern Government has three inescapable obligations to the citizens, namely:

- (1) The protection of the family and the home;
- (2) The establishment of a "democracy of opportunity";
- (3) Aid for those overtaken by disaster.

FOREIGN POLICY The manifesto, with regard to foreign policy, advocates the continuance of President Roosevelt's good-neighbour policy, the reaffirmation of the objectives of the Kellogg-Briand pact, the maintenance of neutrality to the disputes of others, to work for peace, to take the profits out of war, and to guard against being drawn, by political commitments, international banking or private trading, into any war which may develop anywhere.

PROTECTION PLEDGED The foreign trade plank endorses Mr. Cordell Hull's reciprocal trade treaties and pledges the continuance of protection of farmers and manufacturers against dumping. (Continued on Page 14)

DECORATION FOR SHEIK OF BAHREIN

London, To-day.—The Sheik of Bahrein, who is at present visiting England, was received in audience by His Majesty the King at Buckingham Palace yesterday afternoon and was invested with the insignia of K.C.I.E.—British Wireless Service.

WEATHER REPORT

An anti-cyclone is situated in the Pacific to the east of the Bonins and pressure is relatively low over Indo-China and in a trough extending eastwards to the Caroline Islands. South-east winds, moderate; fair generally, was the forecast for to-day, as issued by the Royal Observatory this morning.

EUGENE CHEN'S CRY TAKEN UP

NANKING ALARMED BY NEW MOVE IN GAME FIVE-PART TELEGRAM INSISTING ON IMMEDIATE ACTION

(From Our Own Correspondent)

Canton, To-day. Relations between the South-west and Nanking were strained to an alarming degree to-day, following the five South-west demands asking the National Government to fight Japan. The South-west telegram reached General Chiang Kai-shek, head of the National Government, last night. The telegram, which demanded severance of diplomatic relations with Japan, national mobilisation to fight that country, opposition to the increase of Japanese forces in North China, non-recognition of the armistices signed between Nanking and Japan since September 18, 1931, and freedom in popular movements, has greatly embarrassed the high officials of the Nanking Government. The pacts signed after September 18, 1931, were the Shanghai truce, the Tangku truce and the Ho Ying-ching-Umezu pact. These agreements recognise the stationing of Japanese troops in North China and its non-occupation by Chinese soldiers. General Chiang is said to have opposed the anti-Japanese movement here. His troops in Hunan are reported to have clashed with the Kwangtung-Kwangsi forces, but confirmation is unavailable.

The South-west has insisted that General Chiang shall fight Japan, but he is equally determined to put off the matter. The result is the South-west-Nanking impasse which will lead to far-reaching consequences. The severance of diplomatic relations with Japan was first proposed by Mr. Eugene Chen when he was Foreign Minister in Nanking in 1932. General Chiang opposed this idea for fear of an open war with Japan, whereupon Mr. Chen resigned his post. He was succeeded by Mr. Lo Wen-kan, who is now a member of the South-west Political Council, and who also champions resistance. If the second plenary session of the Kuomintang Central Executive Committee does not adopt the South-west proposals when it meets on July 10, an open rupture is inevitable.

Lance-Corporal In Seaforth Highlanders Killed

Jerusalem, To-day.—A lance-corporal in the Seaforth Highlanders was killed and six Arabs were killed and four wounded in fierce fighting between British troops and Arabs on the Nabulus-Ramallah road. One engagement near the village of Kabalan lasted five hours. Troops and police afterwards searched the adjacent hillside villages for arms.—Reuter.

GENERAL VALLE IN GERMANY

Air Force Stations Visited

Berlin, To-day. The Italian Secretary of State for Air, General Valle, and his staff, accompanied by the German Secretary of State for Air, Herr Milch, paid a visit yesterday to the fighting squadron "Hindenburg" No. 152, stationed in Greifswald, a small port on the Baltic Sea due north of Berlin. After an inspection of the aerodrome and a demonstration of formation flying by the squadron, the party proceeded to the nearby town of Wustrow, where an anti-aircraft artillery school was inspected and target practice witnessed.—Trans-Ocean Service.

ANTHONY EDEN FOR GENEVA

London, To-day. The Foreign Secretary, Mr. Anthony Eden, flew to Paris yesterday afternoon en route for Geneva, where the League Council meeting opens to-day. During his brief stay in Paris last night he met the French Prime Minister, M. Leon Blum, and the Foreign Minister, M. Delbos, who were guests at a dinner at the British Embassy.—British Wireless Service.

WONG WING GOING TO BERLIN Leaving On Sunday By Conte Verde

Wong Ki-leung (Wong Wing), one of the two All-China Olympic football goalkeepers who returned to the Colony on June 19, owing to his wife's illness, will, it is learned, be leaving for the Berlin Games on the Conte Verde, which leaves here on Sunday, with the rest of China's complement of athletes and swimmers.

ALL-INDIA TEAM ENTERTAINED

London, To-day.—Lord and Lady Willington gave a party at the Ritz Hotel yesterday to the members of the All-India cricket team.—Reuter's Bulletin Service.

POLITICAL EXTREMISTS FRUSTRATED

PLOT TO BLOW UP DYNAMITE DEPOT NIPPED IN BUD

Manila, To-day.—A plot to blow up a dynamite depot of the British-owned Smith Bell Co. was foiled by the police, who, receiving information at the last moment, raced from the city to the depot. They discovered a quantity of petrol-soaked rags, with tins of petrol. The depot contained 10,000 cases of dynamite. A similar incident occurred a few days ago, when a bomb exploded beside an oil tank owned by the Socony-Vacuum Corporation, which was not damaged. The attempts are believed to be the work of political extremists. The police are investigating. There have not been any arrests so far.—Reuter.

REAL BEAUTY IS NEVER TENSE

Relaxation Good "Tonic"

Real beauty never is tense. The woman who wishes to attain or retain the precious quality simply must learn to relax not only when she goes to bed but several times during the day.

First of all, make a rule to get up in time to bathe, dress and have a bit of breakfast in a somewhat civilized manner. This does not necessarily mean that you have to soak in the tub, try on three dresses before you make up your mind what to wear or take half an hour to drink orange juice and coffee. It does mean, however, that you ought to allow ample time for a slower, careful grooming and a somewhat peaceful breakfast.

To rush hither and yon with one eye on the clock is indeed the perfect way to start the day all wrong. Do not get your nerves on edge before the morning has fairly started.

Close Your Eyes
Now don't say, "Well, I'll do that, but I'm a busy woman and relaxing during the day is quite out of the question." It isn't at all. You simply have to learn how.

Just what do you do when you ride in a taxi or automobile? Worry about time, fuss at the driver, fidget in your seat and fume about what you are going to do when you arrive? Why? It would be better indeed for your health, happiness and beauty if you would stop thinking, close your eyes and rest for a few minutes.

You do not necessarily have to lie down in order to rest body and mind for two minutes at a time. When dinner is ready and waiting for the children who are late getting home from school, why stand at the window conjuring up imaginary worries? Couldn't you sit at the window, close your eyes and relax completely for a moment or two? Every woman, whether housewife or business executive, is sure to be benefited physically and mentally by brief relaxation periods now and then.

Saving Time And Trouble

GOWNS BASED ON THREE THEMES

Designs That Are Now Out Of Date

Three distinct evening styles emerge from the countless creations shown in the Paris spring collections.

One is the fitted silhouette with fullness introduced somewhere in the region of the knees. The second is the full-skirted gown with the fullness starting at the waist and being evenly distributed all around.

The third combines both features—a straight, narrow front with fullness introduced at the front or at the back in the manner of the 90s or peacock-tail-wise.

On these three themes every creator has elaborated his own particular ideas and treated them in his own manner. Draperies are introduced in such a skillful manner that it is hard to tell where they start or finish. These usually serve as a connecting link in a bi-colored construction.

Formal Gowns

An important feature of formal evening gowns is that ultra-nudity so far as décolleté is concerned is definitely out of date. In fact, it is now considered bad taste to flaunt a completely bare back and shoulders. Transparency effects or a highish front and moderate back neckline are the order of the day.

Sleeves Return To Style

Sleeves complete many of the dressier models—in the form of vaporous, wing-like affairs, very full, forming part of the dress itself or leaving the top of the arm bare, in which case straps intervene to break the nude effect. Chanel is very fond of this particular type of sleeve, which emphasizes the bust and slenderizes the hips. Scarfs attached to the dress, or short boleros ending in hem-long scarfs in front, like those launched by Robert Piguet, are one of the last-minute expressions of the season's evening mode.

New Season Beauty Preparations

Many of the newest aids to beauty on the market this spring are time and trouble savers. Designed especially for girls who take their beauty routines seriously, these are quite inexpensive and will last for months.

For instance, there is a new peach makeup scarf to slip on over dress or negligee while you are applying creams, combing your hair or putting on cosmetics. This is washable, snaps around the neck instead of going on over the head and is long enough to cover your lap when you sit before your dressing table. Also, it can be folded into a tiny package and tucked into the corner of a weekend bag. It costs one dollar, but it probably will save you ten times that amount in dry cleaner's bills.

The Make-Up Band
Then there is a makeup band to fasten around your head while you are putting cosmetic on your face. Made of soft latex with satin streamers to tie at the back, this keeps creams and face powder from lodging around your hairline, and, if used under a shower cap, will do a great deal to protect a finger-wave. These are washable, of course.

For the traveller, and one who does her own nails, there is a new introductory manicure case. This includes a flexible file which does not overheat the nails, an unbreakable glass orange stick for stubborn cuticle, a fine hand lotion, excellent cuticle cream, paste polish to be used in conjunction with a buffer before you apply lacquer and some nice little soap tablets for your nail bath. In addition to soap beads, the tablets contains ingredients which are supposed to make the nails less brittle and the cuticle more easy to manage.

THE NEW LACE HATS

Boater Or Plateau Fashion

Very cool-looking and attractive are the new lace hats that the warm weather has brought out. Many are tiny capotes; others are in the boater or plateau style. A novelty is a mushroom coloured lace shape; resting on a closely curled coiffure, with fanciful net rosettes as the only trimming, all dyed to a similar tint. Fine lace gloves and tessellated gauntlets are worn with this hat.

The lure of lace has taken a firm hold on the milliner's imagination. Treatment of the coloured laces is entirely new and different from previous methods.

Dainty Accessories

With lace are many feminine accessories in the way of flower and feather suitable as an accompaniment. They all provide fashion thrills.

Tiny brims and small flat crowns give an elegant air to their wearers. Young girls, with their knowledge of poise, look their best in these light lace and tulle shapes on which are also placed flowers in many gay colours or the more restrained ostrich feather mounts and halos of wings.

NEW FASHIONS IN JEWELLERY

Rings That Are Now The Vogue

The resetting of the family jewels is the sign of the bride who is receiving a welcome and also of the continual changes in jewellery fashions, to which brides are peculiarly susceptible. To be given an engagement ring which belonged to another generation usually meets with no appreciation at a moment which every girl feels to be peculiarly her own and not that of the bridegroom's mother or great-aunt. There were the engagement rings in which the stones were positively buried; rings in which a claw became ultra-fashionable and which had a knack of wearing down disastrously.

Emeralds And Diamonds

The really fashionable ring, which is neither a wedding nor an engagement ring but a present from the bride's near relation of either sex, is of platinum, and is worn on the little finger. It is wide, flat, and delicately angular, and, to increase the angular look, the diamonds are cut "en baguette" instead of with the usual facets. It will be interesting to see how long this fashion lasts. At least it is of the moment and therefore pertains to the bride and to none of her forbears. The most popular engagement ring is of emeralds and diamonds, the emerald being in the middle of the diamonds, which are also cut with faceted edges only. This, with the emeralds, gives the effect of miniature lustres and has so distinctive a look that it will probably go down as so essentially characteristic of today that the next generation of brides will feel they cannot possibly wear anything so "period."

WHITE MOST BECOMING

Summer Complexion Problems

Summer complexion problems are assuming a new phase with the advent of an all-white vogue for sunshine days. Already many well-dressed women are choosing white as one of the smart accessories to a summer ensemble—white cravats and white ruffles of organdie, white hats and tailored three-quarter length coats. Wide stiff white revers and gauntlet cuffs adorn many of the spring tailors in grey or blue summer woolsens.

Lovely frocks in white organdie and other summery fabrics are being designed by the fashion creators, destined to be worn with wide-brimmed picture hats. And women are discovering how chic, though expensive, this fashion for white can be. Becoming, too, when sunshine—and a little artifice—has bestowed an attractive sun tan on the complexion.

Discretion is one of the secrets of making up successfully to this fashion for white. "Complexion tints must not be vivid." A May-fair beauty expert states. "White is most becoming to a softly tanned skin, lighter in tone for a blonde, and slightly darker for brunettes."

There is a new sun tan powder base, a soft complexion cream that is useful in hastening the sun tan "look," which experts agree is not so much a matter of choosing the correct sun tan shade of powder as the correct cream powder base. There is also a sun tan bronze for darker types of beauty. Complexion powders are chosen to tone with the sun tan cream, made in subtle tints especially designed for blonde, brunette and mid-between complexions.

URBAN COUNCIL

Refuse On Bathing Beaches

REPLIES TO QUERIES

Questions by two members of the Urban Council regarding the pollution of water at bathing beaches by dumping of refuse, were answered by the Chairman (Mr. R. R. Todd) at the fortnightly meeting of the Council held yesterday afternoon.

Dr. R. A. de Castro Easto asked the following questions:

i. What is the probable origin of the refuse that is found in the bathing beaches in Hong Kong and Kowloon?

ii. Is it possible to end this nuisance by preventing the dumping of rubbish in the harbour and in proximity to bathing resorts?

iii. Can the nuisance not be abated by employing coolies to keep the popular bathing beaches clean?

iv. Could floating garbage be collected in nets?

v. Will the Chairman kindly obtain a report on the matter?

The replies were as follows:

Explanation Given

1. The refuse which is washed up on the bathing beaches in Hong Kong and Kowloon probably comes from junks and other small craft and from steamers entering or leaving the Harbour.

All refuse collected by the Sanitary Department is conveyed in lighters to the site of the reclamation at Kun Tong and dumped there as filling material. Very little, if any, of this refuse finds its way into the sea. It is also probable that the water flowing into the Harbour from streams, and sewers carries with it a certain amount of refuse.

2. The dumping of refuse into streams, drains and sewers and into public places from which it is washed by rain into streams, drains and sewers is an offence under Section 3 (1) of Ordinance No. 40 of 1932 which calls for unceasing vigilance on the part of the police and officials of the Sanitary Department. As most of the dumping undoubtedly occurs at night it is difficult to prevent it entirely. The casting of rubbish from ships into the waters of the Colony, an offence under Section 26 (c) of the Merchant Shipping Ordinance, 1899, is equally difficult to prevent.

3. All beaches in Hong Kong and Kowloon are scavenged daily either by the scavenging staff of the Health District concerned or in the case of certain beaches by coolies employed solely for that purpose. The beaches at which special coolies are employed are as follows:—

Repulse Bay Beach, three coolies; Middle Bay Beach and South Bay Beach, one coolie for the two beaches; Shek O and Big Wave Bay Beach, one coolie.

In addition there is a boatman at each of the following beaches: Repulse Bay, Middle Bay, South Bay, and Stanley, who assists in the scavenging when not otherwise employed.

4. The collection of floating garbage in nets is regarded as impracticable.

5. See the answers to the above four questions.

Dumping of Garbage

Dr. Li Shu-fan, pursuant to notice, asked the following question:

"Fredric March and Merle Oberon are in the Excited Artists production, 'The Dark Angel,' now being shown at the King's Theatre.

With the view to minimizing the pollution of the harbour sea water and to safeguarding the health of those who bathe in the water within and adjoining the harbour, will the Chairman kindly furnish answers to the following questions?

(a) Is it a fact that during the preceding 12 months the Kun Tong Reclamation was made—the exclusive refuse-dump for refuse collected from the cities of Victoria and Kowloon?

(b) During this period, has there been any refuse-disposal made at sea by means of barges?

(c) When and where?

(d) During this period how many summonses and convictions, if any, have there been against steamers and other watercrafts for have committed nuisances in respect of the dumping overboard of refuse within harbour limits?

The following were the replies:

(a) Yes.

(b) No.

(c) Does not arise.

(d) The Hon. Harbour Master informs me that during the last 12 months, 21 persons were arrested for dumping rubbish into the Harbour and were brought before the Marine Magistrate. All except one were convicted. Only four of these convictions were in respect of the dumping of rubbish overboard from junks and sampans; the remainder were in respect of the throwing of refuse into the Harbour from the Praya. There were no summonses against steamers for dumping refuse within the Harbour Limits.

BRIDGE NOTES

ON TO GAME

By Ely Culbertson

It is an important part of my bridge philosophy that few hands should be played at contracts one trick short of game.

The value of part scores always has been perhaps the most bitterly debated point in contract. There are two distinct schools of thought. One argues that no hand should be stretched to game because of the probable loss of a part score; the other scoffs and sneers at the part score when compared to game possibility. Naturally, there are merits to both arguments.

No amount of calculation, however expert, can succeed in placing an arbitrary point value on a part score. The fifty point bonus used in duplicate has no relation whatsoever to rubber bridge.

But the part score is not the whole story. It must be examined hand in hand with the stopping short of or going to game. My philosophy is this: If my partner and myself, of our own volition approach to within one trick of game on fitting hands, I go the rest of the way! I refuse to "hang" one short step from my goal! My sense of logic tells me, and my experience endorses it, that this reasoning is sound.

Not one hand, nor a thousand, can adequately prove what must, of its nature, be only theory, but the following hand happens to fall within the category mentioned.

COLONY LOSING FINE SPORTSMAN

F.C. GOODMAN INVALIDED HOME WITH CHEST TROUBLE

(By "Skip")

HIS many friends will be sorry to hear that F. C. Goodman has been invalided home at very short notice, due to chest trouble. Coming out here about 20 years ago, he served with the Royal Naval Yard before the late Mr. R. M. Dyer won him over to the Kowloon Dock staff, with whom he worked for some 14 years. Re-joining Government service at Home, he was posted to the Generating Station in the Naval Yard, arriving back here about a year ago.

In addition to being an Inter-club bowler (he went to Shanghai in 1930) he was an expert rifle shot and had fired at Bisle as a representative of the Colony.

He has been a member of the Kowloon Bowling Green Club since his first arrival in the Colony and a presentation is to be made to identify under the name of SKIP.

SECOND HALF OF SEASON TO OPEN TO-MORROW

K.C.C. Challenge Champions

TAIKOO FAVOURED IN DOCK "DERBY"

(By "SKIP")

The second half of the season commences to-morrow, and it remains to be seen if anyone can lower the colours of the champions. I very much doubt whether they will be deposed from their position, although I cannot conceive that they are unbeatable this year. They have a stiff hurdle to negotiate against the strengthened K.C.C. team to-morrow, but I think they will clear it.

The Civil Service team will entertain Club de Recreio, and I do not think they will be able to hold them down. In the Dock "derby" I think the Taikoo twelve may at last gain a victory, although I have no doubt that the Kowloonites will make special efforts to turn out their strongest team.

All Depends On Mair

The Police are at home to C.C.C. "B" and should win by a small margin unless Mair gets really going, when it might be by a good margin. He is playing as well now as he ever done, which is praise indeed for an ex-Inter-porter.

The Indian Recreation Club and Bowling Green encounter should see the visitors getting home by a few shots, although the Indians will be flushed with their away win last week.

In the Junior Division the best match should be that between the K.C.C. and the Football "A," which I think the home team will win.

SILKSTONE CARRIES K.C.C. JUNIORS TO VICTORY OVER C.S.C.C.

(By "Skip")

FOR the fourth time this season, it is my privilege to comment a rink on scoring a "possible" and whilst my commiserations go out to the firm who so sportingly present a bottle of whisky to each member of the rink, I cannot help but think that they will not be sorry when the epidemic ceases.

For a Football Club "B" rink (A. W. Hayward, J. Dobson, A. Humphrey and E. J. Edwards) to do the trick against J. Russell, of their first team, is rubbing it in a little and I congratulate them on their success.

Apart from this achievement, the most outstanding events of the week-end's bowls were the double victories scored by the Kowloon Bowling Green Club and their neighbours, the Kowloon Cricket Club. I place the former first for the reason that I consider their performances merit the place of honour.

In their home match against the Club de Recreio, they had a pretty severe situation to face after the first seven heads, when they found themselves no less than 18 shots down. Duncan was 10 down to Alves, Holland 2-7 to F. X. Silva and Guy 7-10 to C. G. Silva. But by tea time, at about the fourteenth head, they had recovered all the leeway and every rink was, by a coincidence, level. From then onwards it was a ding-dong struggle from which the home team just emerged victorious, by a small margin on each rink to finish nine shots to the good.

In the first leg of the other "double," to use racing language, the K.C.C., visiting the Civil Service Club, had two comfortable wins whilst Hyde-Lay lost by one shot to Jones, his victim in the Open Singles. Hyde-Lay was leading nearly all the way, only to be pipped on the post, when Jones scored a nice four.

In the Police and Kowloon Dock match, which the former won, McKelvie, had a good win over Shepherd's rink, after being neck-and-neck all the way until the sixteenth, when he got ahead with 10 shots to 1, to pull off a very creditable victory.

But substantial wins to Mair and Hollands, over Ramsay and Cooper respectively, proved enough to retain the points. Mair is right on form just now, as I have mentioned previously.

CRAIGENGOWER WIN
BY BIG MARGINLEONARD & HACHIUMA
DROP ONE GAME!

CHOA AND ZIMMERN FALTER

THE Craigengower Cricket Club proved much too strong for the Civil Service Cricket Club when they met in the "B" Division of the Lawn Tennis League last evening and won by 7½ sets to 1½.

J. W. Leonard and Y. Hachiuma, the Craigengower first string, won all their matches, conceding only one game in three sets, but R. Choa and F. R. Zimmern could only manage two sets, the former being very erratic overhead, while Zimmern was often caught out of position.

E. L. H. Shute and R. R. Todd were the pick of the C.S.C.C. team, but they found their youthful opponents much too fast for them.

MA AND LI BEAT CARSON
AND SQUIRES IN NANKING

Nanking, June 21.—The Nanking pair, Ma Shao-peh and Li Pai-chu, created a sensational upset to-day by defeating the strong Shanghai doubles team, Carson and Squires, in an exhibition match. Subsequently, Carson, the Shanghai champion, was extremely lucky to beat Ma Shao-peh, the local title-holder, by 2 sets to 1 in a singles match.

Mr. William Woodward's Omaha, America's greatest 3-year-old, seen here with "Jim" Fitzsimmons at Saratoga, was beaten by a short head by Lord Stanley's Billy Quashed in the Gold Cup at Ascot a week ago yesterday.

ASIATIC RUGBY
IN SINGAPOREAssociation Formed
To Control Game

Singapore, June 17.

As the All Blues Cup competition is being competed for annually, the officials of the Asiatic Clubs that have rugby sides came together and decided that an association should be formed to control Asiatic rugby in Singapore at the same time to give better facilities to the selection of the Singapore side for the All Blues Competition.

On April 29 the Secretary received a letter from the Registrar of Societies intimating that the Singapore Asiatic Rugby Union had been duly exempted from registration.

It is the intention of the Singapore Asiatic Rugby Union to give its All Asiatic XV several games with the other XV's of the European before the All Blues Cup competition. Of course, the respective Asiatic Sides will also have their own fixtures.

NO CUP RACES FOR DERBY WINNER

London, June 5.—Hopes that Mahmoud would be kept in training to compete for Cup races next year will not be realised. Like the Aga Khan's other Derby winners, Blenheim and Bahram, Mahmoud will be retired to the stud at the end of his three-year-old racing season. If all goes well with the grey he will run for the St. Leger.

A University All-Rounder

H. L. Ozorio, the University all-round sportsman, was educated at St. Joseph's College, but he did not take up swimming seriously until he joined the University in 1932, for it was in that year that he threw his lot in with the Victoria Recreation Club and so commenced competitive swimming. The following year saw him win the Junior Championship of the V.R.C., in addition to being individual champion at the University Union Aquatic Sports. He retained the latter title in 1934 and was captain of the University team which won the Open Colony Relay races at the V.R.C. swimming galas of 1934 and 1935. He achieved the ambition of every swimmer when he was chosen to swim for Hong Kong against Shanghai in the Interport contest last year.

Ozorio also plays a good game of water-polo and has figured prominently in the V.R.C. teams. He has just been elected chairman of the Swimming Club, Hong Kong University Union.

Although he is best known in aquatic circles, Ozorio is also a more than useful all-round cricketer. Essentially a medium-to-fast bowler, he has played for the University in the local League since 1933. He also plays hockey for the University in the Mamak Tournament.

Outside the field of sport, Ozorio is well-known as a pianist and is a member of the "Ozo And His Friends" orchestra. [Another personality will appear to-morrow.]

The Chinese are experiencing great difficulty in finding strong enough opponents for practice games, and it is now proposed that the team visit Canton and play games there against all-Canton. Arrangements are now being made for the team to leave this week-end to play several games there.

RUGBY PLAYERS

BlowROBERTSON, GARROD AND
MUNRO DUE FOR LEAVE

(By "REFEREE")

Although it is still a far cry to the Rugby football season, Hong Kong Rugby enthusiasts will regret to learn that this particular form of sport will be the poorer next winter by the departure of three of the leading players in the Colony, namely L. G. Robertson, the Club and Colony captain, A. K. Munro another Colony Interporter, and S. H. Garrod, who has been an exceptionally keen member of the Club first fifteen for the past few seasons.

Robertson will be going to England on leave, and while there hopes to take part in a few Club games, possibly with the Windser Rugby Football Club, for whom he played when last in England.

He has been capped three times for Hong Kong and has also played for the Colony against the Australian Universities, in 1934, and the New Zealanders last season. He was also given a trial, in 1924, for the combined Berkshire, Buckinghamshire and Oxfordshire fifteen.

A. K. Munro, who is a wing forward, but who has also played in the three-quarter line, will be leaving in October and will spend his holiday in England. He does not, however, expect to play any Rugby. He has represented the Colony once, in 1934, in the Interport against Shanghai.

S. H. Garrod, one of the most enthusiastic followers of the game in the Colony, will most probably be leaving for Canada in the early winter, but he does not know how long he will be away, though he will definitely not be available for the next Rugby season.

New York, May 30.

Primo Carnera, the giant Italian boxer, is definitely not retiring yet. This was the statement made to-night by his trainer, Ray Arcell.

Carnera had to be carried from the ring on Wednesday as a result of a paralytic stroke he suffered during his fight with Leroy Haines. His condition remains unchanged.

His manager, Louis Sorel, declared to-day: "If he wants to continue fighting he must find a new manager."—Reuter.

A Game Of Bluff

One of the latest items of news coming from Shanghai concerning the present friction between the South-west and the Central Government is perhaps the most Gilbertian yet in a situation that would be all Gilbertian were it not for the possibilities—one might now almost say the probabilities—of tragedy involved. It is reported that, unable to obtain delivery of a shipment of arms which arrived in Hong Kong on Sunday last, no permit having been obtained by the Kwangtung authorities, General Chan Chai-tong has instructed his personal representative, Mr. Yang Teh-chao, to request the Central Government to issue a permit for the landing of the arms, which might be long be used against the Central Government or which, in any case, would greatly strengthen the South-west vis-à-vis Nanking. It is difficult to say whether General Chan Chai-tong is absolutely lacking in a sense of humour or possesses a peculiarly subtle sense of it.

Meanwhile the situation remains as obscure as formerly. It would appear that the Kwangtung forces, which were previously reported to have withdrawn, are now again advancing into Hunan and that there has been actual firing, though without damage, between outposts of the Central and the South-western armies. Meanwhile war preparations are being resumed in Canton, General Chan Chai-tong has assumed the post of Commander-in-Chief of the First Group Army, which is now to be termed the Anti-Japanese National Salvation Army, and a number of orders, easy to give, but more difficult to carry out, have been issued.

That the mass of the people in the South-west are in favour of the movement it would be foolish to declare; it is the unfortunate farmer and petty tradesman, already taxed almost beyond bearing, that will have to pay the piper in the end. It would seem that it is only certain high officials, playing for their own hand, with a following of student hot-heads, that are shouting for war against Japan. Mr. Chou Lou, Chancellor of the Sun Yat-sen University, who was at least honest in his opposition to Chiang Kai-shek, changed his opinion of the Generalissimo's policy after a personal interview with him in Nanking and withdrew his support of the agitation and anti-Japanese propaganda which he had previously countenanced. There is no doubt, too, that he communicated the results of his interview to the members of the Canton Government. There is the responsibility for the continuance of the agitation and whatever consequences it may entail.

One suggestion—and a very plausible one—of their extraordinary action is that they are putting up a gigantic bluff; that by preaching this anti-Japanese crusade they may gradually attract so much support that they will feel themselves strong enough to declare their complete independence from Nanking. But it should be obvious to the meanest intelligence that this is a bluff that is extremely easy to call. General Chiang Kai-shek has forces at his disposal which the South-westerners could never hope successfully to face. And Japan herself might possibly say: "You shout for war. You shall have it." What of the South-west then?

WEDDING BELLS

WYLLIE-HATCH

YESTERDAY'S CEREMONY AT ST. JOHN'S CATHEDRAL

A very pretty wedding was solemnised at St. John's Cathedral, yesterday afternoon, when Miss Ethel Hatch became the bride of Mr. Roy Leslie Wyllie. The Rev. H. W. Baines officiated.

The bride, who is the daughter of Mr. Herbert Hatch, wore an ivory Chantilly lace gown in rose design fashioned on Grecian lines, with slightly draped neck line, capelets of orange-blossoms on each shoulder and long full sleeves tightened at the wrist with rings also of orange-blossoms. The skirt of the gown fell in soft folds forming a train. An embroidered Brussels net veil was held in place by a halo of orange-blossoms set far back on the hair. She carried a bouquet of jasmine and gardenias. Mr. Hatch gave his daughter away in marriage.

Two Bridesmaids

Attending the bride were the Misses Irene Deacon and Nancy Duckworth, who were gowned in lilac and waterlily organdies with full sleeves and skirts trimmed with horse-shoes of pastel shaded Parma violets. They wore Watteau hats and carried heart shaped vanity bags of flowers and ferns.

The bride's and bridesmaids' dresses were by Eunice. The Matron of Honour, Mrs. S. Deacon, wore a blue and white floral chiffon gown over shell pink with long sash in toning shades and a picture hat. Her bouquet was of pink shaded gladioli.

Mr. Alexander P. Downie was best man.

Later, a reception was held at the Gloucester Hotel. On leaving for the honeymoon, to be spent in Japan and North China, Mrs. Wyllie wore a deep plum blue Albene ensemble by Eunice with hat, shoes and bag to match.

LOCAL TRAFFIC ACCIDENTS

One Person Killed Last Week

In the Colony of Hong Kong including the Island, Kowloon and the New Territories, during the week ending at 8 a.m. on Saturday last, there were altogether 65 traffic accidents, as the result of which one person was killed and 35 persons were injured.

The person killed was a Chinese girl, who died as the result of injuries received when she was knocked down by a private motor-car while running across the road. Of the persons injured, 26 were pedestrians who were either walking or running across the road and were struck by vehicles. Two tramcar passengers were injured while alighting from moving tramcars. One lorry passenger was injured through falling from a moving motor lorry.

A public motor-car driver was injured when his vehicle collided with a tramway standard. A bicycle rider was injured through falling from the vehicle whilst in motion. Four bicycle drivers were injured as the result of collisions between vehicles.

Of the 65 accidents, 27 were collisions between vehicles; 29 were collisions between vehicles and pedestrians; and 9 accidents were due to other causes.

EXPLANATION OF TO-DAY'S CARTOON

Froze To Death On The Run

STANDING like a little statue of ice, a rabbit was found in the Regina, Saskatchewan, cemetery a short time ago, frozen solid, yet perched on its hind legs as though ready to jump. The little bunny, though one of the fastest animals on feet, couldn't beat the cold wave that gripped and killed him on the run.

PATRON OF P.A.C.

The King has become Patron of the Royal Automobile Club, thus being the third reigning monarch to hold the position.

Here There and Everywhere

CHIVALROUS LADY GOLFERS

The interchange of courtesies between the Ladies' Golf Union and the United States Golf Association is an example of the spirit in which all international sporting contests should be conducted.

When the Curtis Cup match was halved the American body suggested to the L.G.U. that the trophy should be held here for one year and for one year in the United States.

The L.G.U., however, said in reply that as the American team had never been beaten in a match, the cup must return to the U.S.A. It has now been played for three times. America won the first two matches.

SPORTS ADMIRABLE CRICHTON

The sale at Christie's recently of a collection of old English furniture belonging to Sir Charles Lawes-Wittewronge recalls probably the greatest athlete ever produced by Eton and Cambridge.

At Eton, in the early 'sixties, he won the hundred yards, quarter mile, steeplechase, sculls and pair oars. In the University sports he carried off the half-mile, mile and two miles. In 1865 he was the mile amateur champion of England.

He won the Diamond and Wingfield Sculls at Henley and stroked the losing Cambridge crew in the 1865 boat race.

Still irrepressible at 55, in 1898 he took up speed cycling. In the following year, at the Crystal Palace, he set up the 25-mile amateur record time of 51 min. 15.45 sec.

Your Daily Smile!

"You say your wife is a great linguist?"
"She is."
"How many languages does she speak?"
"Oh, it's all one language."

A crowd had assembled at the scene of a fire, and a policeman was moving them on. One man, however, refused to go.

"Why should he stop," he said, pointing to a man who was watching the conflagration with considerable interest, "and I move on?"
"Well, sir, it's his fire."

It is rather dismaying to think how often ten big song hits, hundreds of lavish scenes, and thousands of beautiful girls, all add up to one bad motion picture.

ANOTHER ENGLISH JOURNEY

NEW IMPRESSIONS OF A NATIVE LAND

VITAL HERITAGE OF COUNTRY THAT IS LOVED BY ALL

(By J. B. Priestley)

HERE are more new impressions after eight months' absence. I have just been from London to Wales and back by car, with some side-journeys and lingerings near the border. The favoured counties were Radnor, Brecon, Shropshire, Worcestershire and Gloucestershire.

I saw the spring loveliness of this country all over again, and it took my breath away. First, the enchanting haze over everything, as if delicate veils were already falling between you and reality.

It is this haze that makes the English landscape unpaintable, except by a water-colourist of genius. And it is this haze, gently subduing and mellowing all things, making meadow and road and wood and hill all melt into one misty greenness, that helps to give that landscape its magic quality.

Miles Of Blossom

There was blossom for miles and miles. Everything seemed to be out somewhere—apple, pear, cherry, plum. Even the black thorn had not disappeared yet from the hedgerows. In some of the valleys in these border counties, it was snowing apple blossom. In others, where there was more shelter from the wind, the very countryside was pink-and-white, as if even the gates and barn doors and walls had suddenly burst into flower.

The green of the woods was unbelievable. Some of the trees, especially the sycamore, had a vivid thickness that was stereoscopic. Everything was thick, lush, juicy. I have never seen so much gorse flaming on the hills. The meadows flashed gold at us. There were cascades of lilac along the roads.

Villages with entrancing names peeped shyly at us. They had little grey humpbacked bridges over trout streams and the right sort of pubs. The boys had rosy cheeks and the girls wide blue eyes. There were shepherds from the hills. Just round the corner, you felt, was Arden, where "they" feed the time carelessly, as they did in the golden world.

I have denounced the ugliness of England and I have filled pages and pages praising its beauty. But I do not ever remember feeling that beauty so intensely before, except perhaps in the spring of 1919. (I had just been demobilised, after four and a half years, was setting out on a walking tour of the Yorkshire Dales, and had been commissioned to write about it at the rate of one guinea per article. And what a fellow I thought myself then!)

This English landscape is very much like English literature. It is half domestic, half magical. It is the perfect setting for the revels of Titania and Bottom the Weaver. You have one foot in the bar parlour of the "Dog and Duck" where they are earnestly discussing the worries of pig-keeping, and the other foot in fairyland.

The people have this same mixed quality. They seem at first the most prosaic folk in the world, yet actually they are poetical at heart.

The sober little country town contains the most fantastic characters. (Santayana, the philosopher, and a foreigner, has written the best description of us from this point of view. See his "Soliloquies in England," a magnificent book.) The whole place is slightly fantastic, as well as being incredibly beautiful.

The Real England

Now all this is to my mind the real England, the magic green island of Shakespeare and the lyric poets, the England that I have heard praised all over the world, the home that we can never forget.

This is the England that will survive in man's memory as the Athens of Pericles has survived, the England that may still light up the imagination of men in the far distant future, when the very face of the world, its oceans and continents, has been completely changed.

We must remember this. Day in and day out, we must remember. (Continued on Page 15.)

NELSON EDDY, on his concert tour, is breaking all records and is a prime favourite not only with Radio and concert "fans," but is crowding Clark Gable and Robert Taylor in a close race for box-office popularity.

All Hollywood buzzed with the romance between Norma Shearer and Leslie Howard. Howard has now left the film colony with wife, family and polo ponies, declaring he will not return, but in future will devote himself to stage appearances and British-made pictures. The strong friendship between Carole Lombard and Clark Gable is now furnishing food for gossip.

Arline Judge and Wesley Ruggles can't seem to make up their minds whether they will separate, and seem the best of friends in public anyhow. When Margaret Sullivan had her recent accident and broke her arm, her ex-husband Henry Fonda was her only visitor at the hospital. There may be truth in the rumour that they will re-marry. Fonda now lives in a Beverly Hills mansion with James Stewart.

Wendy Barrie, lent to M.G.M. by Paramount, has finished her picture "Speed" with James Stewart.

The "talk of the town" is the M.G.M. production, "The Great Ziegfeld," which will set an all-high for musicals. It is now touring America playing to capacity at the highest prices, for two shows a day only.

Kitty Carlisle is studying opera in New York, with the hope of a Metropolitan appearance. She is "seen places" with the famous composer George Gershwin.

Jean Harlow is now at work on "Suzy" with Franchot Tone and Cary Grant.

June Lang is featured in the romantic lead in "The Country Doctor," which will soon be shown at the King's and Alhambra Theatres.

Anita Louise seemed to be so much in love with Ross Alexander (whose wife recently committed suicide) that her mother sent her off hurriedly on a trip to the Continent. Perhaps the loveliest young girl in Hollywood will have forgotten Ross by the time she returns. John Barrymore and Elaine Jacobson seem sure to marry when the divorce from Dolores Costello is made absolute. Strange goings-on in the film colony when all eyes were on Margaret Sullivan arriving at the Toggis Tournaments with Henry Fonda (husband No. 1) and later leaving for a preview with husband No. 2 (William Wyler).

Anita Louise and Donald Woods have the romantic roles in the Cosmopolitan production, "The Story of Louis Pasteur," which is now being shown at the Queen's Theatre.

THERE are few admirers of Ronald Colman who will ever forget his super performance in "The Dark Angel," wartime drama, with the lovely Vilma Banky. Wyndham Standing, if I remember rightly, played the part now in the capable hands of Herbert Marshall. As the heroine we now have that pretty half-Indian, half-English girl from Calcutta, Merle Oberon (really Queenie Thompson) who has wisely discarded the bizarre Oriental make-up which Sam Goldwyn insisted she should sport in "Folies Bergere" (with Maurice Chevalier) and given us a charming, soft-voiced, graceful and very feminine girl.

It is unnecessary to remind anyone that the story tells of a girl who is in love with two brothers, and chooses one of them on the eve of their departure for war. The talkie version holds just the same poignant appeal as the old "silent" and is beautifully directed by Sidney Franklin (of "Smilin' Through" fame) who once more brings that delicate and charm to which we are accustomed when he is in charge. The dialogue reflects unusual intelligence in its revelation of character and drama, and the three principals do it full justice.

This is easily the best performance given us by Fredric March, who portrays the blind war hero with more than his customary skill. Personally I think he shines in plays of this type and not in costume drama. Herbert Marshall does well as the sacrificing brother, and others worthy of mention are Cora Sue Collins, Fay Chaldecott, Janet Beecher, John Halliday, Henrietta Crossman, George Breakston, Frieda Inescourt, Jimmy Butler, Jimmy Baxter, David Torrence, Douglas Walton and many more. Seldom does the screen yield, in one production, more beauty and appeal than is found in this United Artists release, and credit must be given to the director, producer, artists and photographer. Not to be missed. (King's).

"Love On A Bet"

This is the best chance to date that Wendy Barrie has had in Hollywood. She was lent to R.K.O. by Paramount to co-star with that delightful actor Gene Raymond and they both score in a picture that can only be classified as a lot of fun, even if highly improbable. To win money to back a play, Gene Raymond wagers he can duplicate the feat of his hero—that is, to start from New York clad only in his underwear, and finish up ten days later in Los Angeles with a good suit and one hundred dollars. In making good he runs into a series of amusing adventures, in which Miss Barrie and Helen Broderick (remembered in "Top Hat") do more than their share towards the success.

The dialogue is snappy, the situations unique, and the whole cast contribute excellent performances. Wendy Barrie has never been photographed to better advantage, and is now rapidly proving her worth in light stories of this type. Miss Broderick, too, more than holds her own with the charming stars, while William Collier Sr., Addison Randall, Eddie Gribbon and Morgan Wallace help things along.

Gene Raymond goes from one picture to another, and in the few short years he has been in Hollywood, this young Broadway stage star still stands among the first favourites. You will like him, specially in this amusing comedy. (Alhambra).

"Everybody's Old Man"

Most of us recall with pleasure "The Working Man" in which George Arliss and Bette Davis played the world-famous Dionne Quintuplets in their first charmed. Now it has been made a slightly different background, and the famous writer Irvin Cobb plays the role of the old man, originated by Arliss. 20th Century-Fox sent for Cobb, with the hope that he would take the place in popularity of the late Will Rogers. I hardly think that is possible, but he is sure to satisfy, at least with his naturalness.

He portrays the role of a retired meat packer, who helps the inheritors of a rival packing plant when he hears that they are heading for the poor house.

Norman Foster is most satisfactory as the nephew who falls in love with the girl, Rochelle Hudson, while Johnny Downs is the brother. Alan Dinehart, Sarah Haden, Warren Hymer and Donald Meek under the skilled direction of James Flood make this worth-while entertainment. (Alhambra).

"Song And Dance Man"

The old story of the vaudeville team—one good and one bad—who can't play fair to each other when they hit the bright lights of Broadway. Paul Kelly is good in the role originated by Tom Moore in the silent version, while Claire Trevor repeats with success the role which gave Bessie Love a big chance.

Michael Whalen is likeable as the playboy who wins the girl and Margaret Dumont, Irene Franklin, James Burke and Ruth Donnelly help to make this quite a bright little show. At least it is surprising to see and hear Paul Kelly and Rochelle Hudson and Norman Foster are the romantic youngsters in "Everybody's Old Man," which is now being shown at the Alhambra Theatre.

Miss Trevor sing and dance without the aid of "dubbing," and they make the most of their material. (King's).

"The Voice Of Bagle Anne"

A tale of dogs and a family feud in old Missouri, this is real old-fashioned melodrama, but that grand trouper Lionel Barrymore alone makes this film worth your money. The story tells of a rural dog-breeder (Lionel Barrymore) who glories in "Bagle Anne," a hound with a musical bay. When he believes a man killed her, he kills the man.

Maureen O'Sullivan is the girl responsible for clearing the mystery, and incidentally of stealing the heart of Eric Linden, the son of her father's hated enemy. A homey, but touching little story, with plenty of appeal, and excellent characterisations. Dudley Digges, Spring Byington, Charley Grapewin and Henry Wadsworth give sound support. (Alhambra).

"The Country Doctor"

I hardly think it possible that there is anyone living who will not want to see the world-famous Dionne Quintuplets in their first full-length picture. The story is with a slightly different background, and the famous writer Irvin Cobb plays the role of the old man, originated by Arliss. 20th Century-Fox sent for Cobb, with the hope that he would take the place in popularity of the late Will Rogers. I hardly think that is possible, but he is sure to satisfy, at least with his naturalness.

PAUL MUNI is rated by critics and cinema-goers as one of the—if not the greatest—actors on the screen. From that first sensational appearance in "Scarface" followed by "I Was a Fugitive from a Chain-gang," "Black Fury," "Bordertown," and many more, he has come to be recognised as a star who stands in a class by himself. He will not accept a role unless he feels he has something worth-while. I had letters from the M.G.M. lot the other day, from someone who has seen him at work as the Chinese coolie in "Good Earth," and it bids fair to rank with his other masterpieces.

In "The Story of Louis Pasteur" he is poles apart from all his other characterisations—truly the great artist. Bette Davis, who acted with him in "Bordertown," says that of all the actors with whom she has worked no one enters so wholeheartedly into his part as Muni. Off-stage and on the lot he lives as he feels the person would live. All this tends to realism, and ensures a superb performance. In "Pasteur" he surprises by his subtlety and suavity, but in a truly magnificent manner Muni has re-created the famous hero of humanity who fought a jeering world and triumphed only by undaunted courage.

This is a distinguished and gripping drama, unlike anything yet seen, and will appeal to every conscientious movie-goer. The story is an honest biography of the hopes, struggles and achievements of the great French scientist F. Louis Pasteur, and portrays the prejudice, superstition and filth he had to overcome. Handicapped by every kind of obstacle, his findings revolutionised the medical world.

The story makes one thoughtful and serious, but is definitely a re-creation of a historical record that makes for outstanding entertainment. You can't help feeling rather sorry for the wife (so excellently played by Josephine Hutchinson) but then we are told that it is a hard life to share responsibilities, troubles and triumphs of a genius.

Muni naturally dominates any film in which he appears, but this is not because he likes to shine; it is because by sheer magnetism and talent he overshadows the other performers.

In the lengthy cast will be round lovely Anita Louise, and Donald Woods (who furnish the small love interest) Josephine Hutchinson as Madame Pasteur, Henry O'Neill, Raymond Brown, Aldin Tamiroff, Halliwell Hobbes, Frank Reicher, Dickie Moore, Fritz Leibler and others. Every member of the cast turns in a fine performance, but it will be, once more, the great Paul Muni you will remember for all time in a picture that no one must miss. (Queen's).

"Big Brown Eyes"

This is grand comedy entertainment, full of witty dialogue, melodramatic mystery and amusing situations. Joan Bennett is the wise-cracking manicurist turned sob-sister, while Cary Grant is the police detective. These two are brought together as the result of a jewel robbery and killing.

No need to tell the story, but the two stars have never done better work—in fact they are perfectly cast. Walter Pidgeon—far too seldom seen these days—is also excellent as the master crook, with Alan Baxter, Henry Kleinback, Lloyd Nolan, Douglas Fowley, Isabel Jewell, and Marjorie Gateon more than holding their own in minor roles. The picture has Walter Wanger's usual fine production and is smartly directed by Raoul Walsh. Certainly advised. (Queen's).

"Brown On Resolution"

Hong Kong theatre-goers will recall John Mills, that exceedingly clever young man who appeared out in the "Orient in Journey's End" with the Bobby Salisbury Company. Now he has made a big name for himself on the London stage and film, thanks, he says, (Continued on Page 12)

GOOD MONEY FOR BAD

"EXPEDITION" TO TAIPO

CRIMINAL SESSIONS CASE

Charges of possession of counterfeit 10-cent pieces and of uttering the said counterfeit money were preferred against Leung Kwai-siu and Lee Yin, a woman, before His Honour, Sir Atholl Macgregor, at the Criminal Sessions this morning.

Mr. M. J. Abbott appeared for the prosecution and the defendants were not legally represented. The following jury was empanelled:—Messrs. W. C. Felslow (foreman), J. S. Smith, L. J. S. Glendenning, J. R. Camming, V. M. Barradas, Lee Tat-chee and K. W. Petersen.

Before opening the case, Mr. Abbott said that the prosecution was not offering any evidence against the first defendant insofar as the first charge was concerned. The Chief Justice then remarked that he would ask the jury, when the time came for them to consider their verdict, to formally discharge the first accused on that count.

Shopping Expedition

Continuing, Mr. Abbott said that he would endeavour to tell the jury of a shopping expedition undertaken by the defendants at Taiipo Market although they were, at the time, living in Wanchai. The result of this expedition was that the defendants secured a number of odd articles and Mr. Abbott suggested that the reason why the defendants went to Taiipo Market was that they felt it would be easier for them to get rid of the counterfeit coins there than in Hong Kong. The defendants only made purchases amounting to two cents, but they tendered a 10-cent piece for payment each time and Mr. Abbott suggested that this was because the defendants wanted to get as much good money in exchange for their bad coins as possible. The case is proceeding.

MAN'S £3,000 IN TRUST

Worthless Cheques £25 Fine

A man who had 22 cheques dishonoured, involving a sum of £105, was fined £25 at Windsor last month for obtaining money and goods by means of worthless cheques. He was Thomas Lancelot Tennant, aged 35, of Windsor.

It was alleged that two of the cheques were uttered while he was on bail. In this way he had obtained £8.

Mr. W. Fearnley-Whittingtall, defending, said that some of the money involved had already been repaid, and an undertaking was given that the whole amount would be paid within six weeks.

There was £3,000 in trust for Tennant, which he could not touch. He was a man who had money so near and yet so far.

The chairman of the Bench, Mr. F. C. Charlsh, said that the magistrates had the greatest difficulty in not sending Tennant to prison.

Two cases of diphtheria were reported to the local Health authorities during the 24 hours ended on Wednesday.

SILVER FROM THE BRITANNIA

Sent To The Palace

Cowes. A large consignment of articles, chiefly silver, china and glassware, which have been used aboard King George's cutter Britannia, was sent last month to Buckingham Palace.

The Britannia is now hauled up at an East Cowes yacht yard, and may shortly be sunk in the Channel.

The articles sent to the Palace were those which King Edward does not wish to be included in the sale of the Britannia's equipment and stores.

Irvin S. Cobb, Rochelle Hudson and Norman Foster are together in "Everybody's Old Man," which is now being shown at the Alhambra Theatre.

HURSTBOURNE PARK BOUGHT BY M. P.

Jacobean Mansion Acquired

Mr. P. W. Donner, Conservative M.P. for Basingstoke, is to buy Hurstbourne Park, the Hampshire seat of the late Beatrice, Countess of Portsmouth. An area of about 500 acres will go with the house.

Hurstbourne Park lies between Basingstoke and Andover. The mansion, a fine example of the Jacobean style, replaced an old house of the Adam period which was badly damaged by fire towards the end of last century. The River Test, famous for its trout fishing, flows through the heavily timbered park.

The whole estate of some 5,000 acres was put on the market two or three months ago by the trustees of the late Lady Portsmouth, Simmons & Sons, Basingstoke, Reading and Henley-on-Thames, being the agents concerned.

REDUCTION OF CAPITAL

CONVERSION OF CURRENCY

Before the Chief Justice, Sir Atholl Macgregor, at the Supreme Court this morning, Mr. H. H. Shing Lo, instructed by Mr. E. S. C. Brooks, made an application for the confirmation of the reduction of the capital of the Wing On Company (Shanghai) Ltd., from $10,000,000 Hong Kong currency, to $10,000,000 National currency. Mr. Lo said that the petition was to ask His Lordship to confirm the scheme of reduction. He went on to say that the reduction was not based on the alleged loss of capital, but that it was purely a matter of the conversion of the existing capital, expressed in Hong Kong dollars, into Shanghai currency.

The confirmation was accordingly made.

CHINA MUST CUT TARIFFS

TREASURY EXPERT HERE

SIR FREDERICK LEITH-ROSS

Among the passengers who arrived in the Colony this morning by the s.s. Rawalpindi from Shanghai was Sir Frederick Leith-Ross, economic adviser to the British Treasury, who is on his way back to England after a stay of several months in China, in the capacity of special adviser.

When interviewed by the Press, however, Sir Frederick declined to make any statement, adding that the statement he released on leaving Shanghai was a very full one, and that he had nothing to add to it. He mentioned, however, that his advice that the Chinese tariffs be reduced in view of the extensive smuggling in North China, would have to be very closely followed, adding that such reduction would have to be done with the smallest possible loss to the revenue.

Sir Frederick and Lady Leith-Ross will be staying in the Colony until noon to-morrow. Accompanied by Sir Frederick's secretary, they will be the guests of His Excellency the Governor and Lady Caldecott, at Government House.

BAG-SNATCHER CHARGED

The highway robbery at Eastern Hospital Road on Sunday when a Japanese lady, Ai Ichi Kawa, was the victim of having her handbag snatched and a jade ornament taken from her by a Chinese, had its sequel at the Central Magistracy this morning, when Tsui Chui appeared before Mr. W. Schofield charged with snatching the handbag, containing $8 and a gold hair ornament set with jade, and with using violence immediately before or after the snatching. Inspector A. E. Carey asked for 72 hours remand, which was granted.

Apology To Scottish Minister Follows Dornock Dance Dispute

A settlement was reached in the Rev. James MacLeod, of Greenglasgow last month at a meeting of the Synod of the Free Presbyterian Church of Scotland in connection with the Dornock dancing dispute between the Rev. Ewen MacQueen, of Inverness, and the Northern Presbytery.

When Provost Murray, of Dornock, was expelled by the Northern Presbytery for having dancing at a Christmas party in his home, Mr. MacQueen said the action of the Presbytery was unconstitutional. He was censured by the Presbytery.

Announcing the settlement of the dispute with Mr. MacQueen at last month's meeting of the Synod, draw unreservedly.

VICAR'S CHALLENGE AT 71

To Athletic Feats

A 71-year-old clergyman, the Rev. Henry Cradock Knight, Vicar of Knaresborough, Yorkshire, has challenged any man of his age to run or walk a mile, row a mile, cycle a mile, and swim the river at Knaresborough, all within 50 minutes.

Mr. Knight kept wicket for Knaresborough Cricket Club, and was goalkeeper for the town's football eleven. He is an expert billiard player, and rowed for Durham University.

Fredric March, Merle Oberon and Herbert Marshall are in the United Artists production, "The Dark Angel," which is now being shown at the King's Theatre.

AUSTIN AND PERRY WIN AT WIMBLEDON

VAN RYN SHAKES HEAD AND LAUGHS AT HELPLESSNESS

London, To-day.—The tennis at Wimbledon was continued in brilliant weather and with an attractive programme yesterday, reducing the men's singles to the last sixteen.

After trailing at 1-3 in the first set, Fred Perry, the holder, produced his most brilliant form and routed the American Davis Cup player, John Van Ryn by 6-3, 6-2, 6-0, the match lasting only 40 minutes.

Perry indulged in some excellent volleying and fine smashing, while he also flashed across several scintillating sideliners to which Van Ryn could only shake his head and laugh at his own helplessness.

Other Third Round results were:

B. Grant beat F. Avery (Britain) 6-4, 6-2, 6-4.
H. W. Austin beat C. R. D. Tuckey (Britain) 6-2, 6-1, 6-3.
G. Von Cramm beat C. Boussus (France) 6-4, 6-3, 6-2.

Vivian McGrath (Australia) beat Delacastillo, the Argentine Davis Cup player, 6-4, 2-6, 6-3, 12-10.

WOMEN'S THIRD ROUND

Helen Jacobs beat Mlle. Goldschmidt (France) 6-1, 6-0.
Dorothy Round beat Frau Kraus (Austria), 6-1, 6-3.
Frau Sperling beat Caroline Bahcock, the American Wightman Cup player, 7-5, 6-1.
Countess Valence beat Mrs. Luxton (Britain) 6-2, 6-1.

BUDGE'S EASY WIN

Others to reach the last sixteen in the Men's Singles were:—
Donald Budge beat F. Lesueur (France) 6-1, 6-1, 6-1.
Jack Crawford beat K. C. Gander (Dower) (Britain) 6-1, 6-2, 6-3.

H. Maier (Spain) beat Meredith (Britain) 6-1, 6-2, 6-2.

H. G. N. Lee (Britain) beat H. C. Sedman (New Zealand) 6-3, 6-4, 6-4.

Jean Borotra, who is a great favourite with the Wimbledon crowd, made another characteristic dash when he arrived at Wimbledon at 2 o'clock, changed in four minutes, and then helped Jacques Brugnon to beat Fisher (Switzerland) and Kukujevic (Yugoslavia) by 6-2, 7-5, 15-13 in the Second Round of the Men's Doubles.

Almost immediately after Borotra and Miss Susan Noel (Britain) beat Dehorman and Nelli Adamson (Belgium) 0-6, 6-1, 8-6 in the Second Round of the Mixed Doubles.—Reuter.

Perry's Lost Interest In Tennis

"NOW THAT I AM MARRIED"

"Tennis used to be my whole life, Now I am a married man it is only part of it. I have lost interest and enthusiasm. I can concentrate no longer. That is the plain truth."

F. J. Perry, Britain's No. 1 player and world champion, made this statement to the Paris correspondent of the Daily Mirror after losing his French singles title to Baron G. von Cramm.

Mrs. Perry (formerly Miss Helen Vinson), the film actress, sitting in the stands, smiled down at her husband as his title was slipping away.

"NOT WORRYING"

Mr. and Mrs. Perry discussed the match afterwards.

"I really don't think Fred was playing badly," said his wife. "I suppose it is good for him to lose occasionally. I am certainly not worrying about it. Losing tennis championships is not a catastrophe to me."

"Of course, it's not a catastrophe," interposed Perry.

"I expect I shall be playing better at Wimbledon, but if I don't, what of it? You can't stay out of the game for seven months and then expect to come back to big tennis and win championships just the same as before."

EARLIER MESSAGES

London: Willmer Allison, another American Davis Cup player, had a hard struggle to beat Vandenberghe, the Belgian ace, the scores being 8-6, 7-5, 7-5.

Adrian Quist (Australia) beat Itoh (Japan) by 6-0, 6-0, 6-3, the latter being unable to counter Quist's pace, driving outside and netting frequently.

The base line game of the Japanese exposed the forecourt to the Australian's brilliant volleys. Itoh displayed an effective forehand and backhand and he sliced well, but he missed opportunities of volleying.

ITALY LIKELY TO LEND SUPPORT SLOW AND DIFFICULT PROGRESS

NO ACCEPTABLE FORMULA FOUND

Montreux, To-day.

After three days' conference a survey of the alignments of the Powers shows that the Soviet's claim to free ingress and egress receives the support of Turkey, Rumania and France. The only Power so far openly opposing the claim is Japan. Bulgaria is expected also to oppose, while Yugoslavia is expected to demand equal rights for all States.

The Duce's son-in-law, Count Ciano, is expected to represent Italy at the conference after the raising of sanctions, and will put up strong opposition to M. Litvinoff's claims.

The general discussion has concluded and the conference has adjourned until after the meetings of the Council and Assembly of the League. The immediate remilitarisation of the Straits as soon as the new convention is signed has been tentatively agreed. This will be done by a special protocol which will not only authorise the remilitarisation but also the application of Article IX, whereby Turkey can subject any warship passing through the Straits to special conditions if she considers that there is a menace of war.

Lord Stanhope (Britain) suggested the omission of the Article prohibiting the flight of aircraft over the Straits, but Rushdi Aras (Turkey) maintained his standpoint and the Article was referred to a technical committee, which will continue the discussion while the principal delegates are at Geneva.

Progress is likely to be slow and very difficult. So far only the first sentence of the second Article of the convention has been discussed, and no acceptable formula has yet been found.—Reuter.

RUSSIA'S DEMANDS

Montreux: In yesterday's session of the Straits Conference the first reading of the Turkish draft was completed. The discussion was turned chiefly on Article IX, which gives Turkey the right to make the passage of warships through the Dardanelles dependent upon her special permission, if she considers herself to be in danger of war.

The Japanese delegate objected to the clause providing for co-operation of the League of Nations in such a case, while the French and Rumanian representatives welcomed Turkey's desire to safeguard herself if threatened by war.

The proceedings of the conference were terminated for the time being, and the date of the next session will be announced later by the secretary.

SOVIET'S POSITION

"In order," as he points out, "to correct a false interpretation given by some papers to the Soviet Union's aims," M. Litvinoff issued a statement to the press emphasising that all the Soviet Union wants is a limitation of the tonnage through the Straits of warships of non-Black Sea States, and does not compel them to increase their own strength in the Black Sea. At the same time Russia protests against the limitation of tonnage of States belonging to the Black Sea, a limitation which does not exist at present, according to the Lausanne Treaty.

The Soviet Union demands free passage for her warships in the various seas, nothing more. The Soviet delegation also stands for the free passage of warships through the Straits of all nations, in the event of it being necessary to come to the assistance of a victim of aggression in carrying out the provisions of the League Covenant.—Trans-Ocean Service.

Just the splendid action one would expect from Film Favourite No. 1, Nelson Eddy, who was offered a king's ransom to cancel his recent concert tour and make a musical for another major studio. Eddy knew what a terrific disappointment this would mean to small-town folk who have always loved him in concert before he found screen fame, so he threw the rich chance away, and went on with his terrifically successful tour. Now he is back in Hollywood to start on his next musical with Singing Sweetheart Jeanette MacDonald.

Wendy Barrie and James Stewart, who recently acted together, are now the best of friends off-screen, and Merle Oberon and Donald Niven are still the most devoted couple in Hollywood—DIANE.

to Noel Coward, who gave him his first chance in the West End. In "Brown on Resolution," we find him the star, in a screen version of C. S. Forester's thrilling yarn of the British Navy.

There are really two stories in the film, in the second of which John Mills as Albert Brown A. B. appears. He easily gives the best performance in the film, as Barry Mackay is miscast as the Naval Officer getting on in years, and Betty Balfour never seems able to get away from her famous characterisation of "Squibs." The film was aided by the British Admiralty, so the sea-going part of the picture is as realistic and exciting as anyone could wish. Neat performances are turned in by Jimmy Hanley, Howard Marion-Crawford, Percy Walsh, George Merritt and others in this Gaumont-British release made under the direction of Walter Forde. The exciting battle scenes and convincing atmosphere make this film worth while, while many old friends will want to see John Mills on the screen. (King's).

Star, Kowloon

Charles Chaplin and Miss Paulette Goddard in their latest movie "Modern Times." Plenty of old-time slapstick, some scrappy comedy, sub-titles, and the same Mr. Chaplin we all admired twenty years ago. If you do not think exaggerated pantomime and silence out of date, you will want to see this farcical-comedy once. Followed by "Personal Maid's Secret," a Warner Bros. comedy with Warren Hull, Margaret Lindsay, lovely Anita Louise, Ruth Donnelly, Frank Albertson, Henry O'Neill and Ronnie Crosby. The cast do well in an enjoyable entertainment.

For one night the famous "Tell me To-night," with Jan Kiepura at his best, will be given by special request. (Star).

Oriental

Wendy Barrie and John Howard in "Millions in the Air." Simple story of a young romantic couple who fall in love when they enter a radio amateur hour contest together, but only after a series of adventures do they find happiness. Fair entertainment of a light order.

This is followed by Errol Flynn, Olivia de Havilland, Basil Rathbone and Lionel Atwill (to mention just a few) in "Captain Blood." Here is a vigorous and colourful tale of slavery, piracy and romance, well acted and produced.

Next on the list is "Miss Pacific Fleet," with Joan Blondell, Glenda Farrell, Allen Jenkins, Hugh Herbert, Warren Hull and many more. A hilarious comedy of two gold-diggers and some U.S. sailors.

Everyone wants to see the adorable Ginger Rogers in her first big starring vehicle, "In Person." George Brent helps the popular star shoulder most of the responsibility, and between them they give an amusing evening. All due at the popular Oriental.

Paul Muni, Josephine Hutchinson and Donald Woods are in the cosmopolitan production, "The Story of Louis Pasteur," which is now being shown at the Queen's Theatre.

Donald Woods and Anita Louise are teamed for the first time as screen sweethearts in the Cosmopolitan production, "The Story of Louis Pasteur," which is now being shown at the Queen's Theatre.

Olivia de Havilland appears in the Cosmopolitan production, "Captain Blood," which will be shown at the Oriental Theatre on Sunday.

Majestic

Charles Chaplin and new leading lady Miss Paulette Goddard in their latest movie "Modern Times." This is a picture in the "must-be-seen" class, but I do not doubt that most people will be of my opinion, that Mr. Chaplin is dated. Unless one is not weary of exaggerated pantomime, sub-titles and silence, he should stay away; but at least it must be candidly stated that Mr. Chaplin is the same in action and technique as he was twenty years ago.

After this comes Bette Davis and Ian Hunter in "Tenth Avenue Girl," a delightfully acted comedy-drama, with rather a worn-out story, hardly worthy of the leading players, but no one would purposely miss any picture in which Bette Davis appears.

"The Last Days of Pompeii"—a grand spectacular E.K.O. release. The technical effects alone are worth one's money. Preston Foster, John Wood, Basil Rathbone, Alan Hale and hundreds more are splendid in an interesting story where the religious side is reverently treated—certainly worth seeing. (Majestic).—DIANE.

Jean Harlow appears with The Dime. Quintaplets in "The Country Doctor," which will soon be shown at the King's and Alhambra Theatres.

ANOTHER ENGLISH JOURNEY

ber it. We must say to ourselves: "It is this England that must survive, whatever else is lost."

I do not need to be told—for I have more than once pointed it out myself—that this almost idyllic England is the fortunate cousin of a far from idyllic England, which has been toiling in the muck for a century on its behalf. Some of these exquisite country houses and trim villages have been kept going by underpaid, overworked, blackened men labouring in a blackened England. I know all about the economic status of this magical garden country.

Image Treasured

But this does not ruin it as a kind of ideal. The very people who working in black industrial England treasure the image of this older country, these hazy and dreamy meadows, and woods. They are always hoping they will be able to escape from one to the other, if only for a week or a single enchanted day. They may reject—as I do myself—the old political and social system of that countryside, the whole Squire and Church hierarchy, but they do not reject the countryside itself. The fairy tale of its blossom and deep grass, its soft rounded hills and benches, where you can sit, rest and enjoy life under the chestnut-trees now in blossom.

It is very nice to sit here for a little while, as the weather is wonderfully warm. I often do it when I pass by. It is also very entertaining, because now the boys have started the yachting season.

Most of them are very clever at making their boats sail from shore to shore, just like your boys in the lake of Hyde Park. The job here is, perhaps, still a little more difficult than there, as the lakes here are much bigger.

Out they send their yachts and schooners, and then they walk around to the opposite side of the lake and receive them there.

Imagination

I walked behind some boys the other day and listened to their conversation. What an imagination they had. The lake became the Atlantic ocean. The swans which passed the ships were icebergs. Some ships were pirate-ships with a cruel and bloodthirsty captain, who intended to enter their ships with his people, kill the crew, carry off the valuable cargo and destroy the vessel and the rest.

Indeed, children nowadays have fortunately not lost the wonderful power of imagination in spite of all modern mechanics. Thanks be! Therefore, this magical England remains to comfort and to inspire us, just as Shakespeare remains with us. We can use it as a sort of touchstone. We can ask ourselves how this policy, or that will affect this real England. What strengthens it is our best gain.

When we are told that English interests are involved we must try to discover whether it is this England that is meant. We may possibly discover that it is not that actually what are involved are the interests of a very small group of financial gentlemen making large profits out of some tropical product.

Vital Nationalism

I believe that most of us would be ready to give our lives to make this magical England safe, so that our children and their children might know its enchantment. But that does not mean we are also ready to give our lives for the sake of Aden, or Mombasa, or Karachi, or the Solomon Islands.

The Spring—for all I know—may be equally beautiful in Mauritius or Mandalay, but their blossom and deep grass are not ours. They may play lawn tennis and drink bottled Bass in Sarawak or the Sudan, but these places have no part in our dearest dream of life. Our children must wander, as we have done, into the Forest of Arden. It is not equally necessary that they should also lord it as we have done, in Hong Kong.

To love and to wish to protect this England is the real vital nationalism. Of any other kind I am suspicious. And let us clearly understand then what is being threatened and exactly what must be defended. For the apple trees will still blossom every Spring even when debenture holders have to work for a living.

SOUTH-WEST STAND SUPPORTED FAVOURABLE MESSAGES RECEIVED

RESISTANCE MUST BE MADE

[From Our Own Correspondent]
 Canton, Yesterday.
 Declarations and telegrams in support of the South-west stand were received here to-day from overseas organisations and public bodies in North China. These messages are in favour of the anti-Japanese resistance, as broadcast by the military authorities in Kwangtung and Kwangsi.
 South-west leaders are much encouraged upon receipt of these telegrams, which came here late owing to outpost censorship and to the belated arrival of the South-west telegrams. Heretofore, high officials were uncertain of the reactions to their political platform.

$477 UNDER FLOOR

Finder Who Hoped For Reward

While repairing floor-boards at a house in Byron-street, Leeds, Thomas Harrison Speight, aged 53, a joiner, found an old tin box containing $477 in $1 notes. Hoping for a reward, he took the box and contents away in his tool bag.

Speight told this story later to the Leeds stipendiary magistrate, Mr. Horace Marshall, when he was charged with stealing the money.

Mrs. Rebecca Brooklyn declared that the money represented her life savings.

Mr. Marshall said he believed Speight's story and discharged him.

JURY'S VERDICT CRITICISED

Woman And Children Who Were Gassed

'WE EXCLUDE MURDER OR SUICIDE'

The jury's verdict at the inquest on a mother and three children who were found dead in a gas-filled room was criticised by the Coroner at Hammersmith last month.

The victims were Mrs. Dorothy Violet Warwick, aged 34, and her children, aged 3, 2½ and 1½.

The jury returned a verdict of death by misadventure, and said no blame whatever rested with the husband.

"We exclude definitely suicide and murder. We think that the gas valve was knocked down accidentally," the foreman added.

The coroner, Dr. Edwin Smith: It is your verdict, but not necessarily mine. I think it is rather one of the cases in which an open verdict would have met the case better.

The husband, Edward Alexander Warwick, a foreman painter, said that the family were "legally trespassers" in their two rooms in Glenholme-road, Hammersmith, which had been sub-let by a tenant.

He slept in the scullery with one boy and his wife and the other three children slept in the bedroom. Since bailiffs visited them on the 10th, should Czechoslovakia use brain" and locked her bedroom door every night.

Cider Bottle Found

Det-Insptr. Frederick Hutton said that he found a quart cider bottle near Mrs. Warwick's bed. A small amount of cider was left. It was a very potent brand.

"I think," he continued, "that if she had a quart of cider her brain would have been in such a state that she would not have heard the hissing of the gas escaping."

The inspector added that he had been told that Mrs. Warwick was quite happy and looking forward to moving. He thought that the deaths were possibly accidental.

The coroner said that the possibilities were suicide or accident, and added: "A further possibility, of course, is that all four of them were murdered by somebody who took off the gas tap and later put money into the gas meter and left them in the bedroom."

Inspr. Hutton said there was no evidence to support that suggestion.

The reported agreement of General Sung Cheh-yuan, Chairman of the Charhar Political Council, to the demands of the Japanese to create independent Customs administrations in Tientsin and Peiping will strengthen the viewpoint of the South-west, that resistance against Japanese aggression cannot be further put off.

To make known their cause, the South-west leaders will embark upon intensive publicity work. An American news agency will circulate interviews and manifestoes of the South-west in the same manner as arranged with the existing agencies.

The South-west platform is theoretically sound. Many public bodies in North China have criticised Nanking for failing to put up a stiff stand against Japan and are supporting the Canton programme.

GREATEST DEMOCRATIC PLATFORM PRESENTED

The budget plank states: "We are determined to reduce the expenses of government, to balance the budget and to reduce the national debt at the earliest possible moment."

SOUND CURRENCY
 The currency plank states: "We approve of the objective of a permanently sound currency, so stabilised as to prevent the former wide fluctuations in value." There is no mention of gold, silver or war debts.

The Civil Service plank includes the immediate extension of the civil service principle to all non-policy-making positions in the Federal service.

With regard to the constitution, the manifesto states that the New Deal will seek a "clarifying amendment" if practice shows that problems as such as drought, floods, minimum wages, maximum hours, child labour, working conditions in industry, monopolistic and unfair business practices cannot be adequately handled by the State and the Federal legislatures within the constitution as it now stands.

The platform was adopted without a debate.—Reuter.

NEW CZECH LAWS

would defend the rights of the Hungarian minority by a common law. Since bailiffs visited them on the 10th, should Czechoslovakia use brain" and locked her bedroom door every night.

M. Krafta declared in his reply that such assertions would not deviate the Czechoslovakian Government from taking the necessary steps for the defence of the realm, as provided for by the new Defence Law. Czechoslovakia would, in fact, welcome a Hungarian complaint before the League of Nations, because this would provide a favourable opportunity for comparing the respective situation of the minorities in both countries.—Trans-Ocean Service.

Palestine Question In House Of Commons

DRAGON BOAT FESTIVAL

Fatal Accident At Canton

NINE PEOPLE DROWNED

[From Our Own Correspondent]

Canton, Yesterday.

Nine persons were drowned following the over-turning of a dragon boat on Tuesday morning. It was ascertained last night. An earlier report incorrectly stated that 60 persons lost their lives.

The dragon boat carried 140 men on board. Off Fong Chen, the boat met a revenue launch, whose wash upset an already over-loaded boat.

The survivors were able to swim, and succeeded in clambering aboard other craft nearby.

The crew of the dragon boat had their navigating experience in the creeks, and on Tuesday they had their first taste of the deep river. There were several cases of collision and ramming among dragon boats in different parts of the river, but no fatalities were reported.

RIVAL UNION AT OXFORD

Women Also To Be Admitted

Oxford.—Oxford undergraduates who are dissatisfied with what they term the "red" tendencies of the Oxford Union are planning to form a rival union. To this women will be admitted. The present union was founded in 1824.

The scheme is revealed by Mr. Keith Briant, editor of the Iris, the Oxford undergraduate journal. In a leading article, he writes:

"Ever since the much-discussed motion was passed in 1933 'that this House will under no circumstances fight for King and country,' a great number of undergraduates have refused to become members of the society."

"While a debating society has every right to select whatever motions it likes for discussion, it cannot be denied that as a University debating society the union has done itself incalculable harm by the recent Red Flag motion."

Undesirable
 "If it is undesirable that a minority should give the outside world the impression that Oxford is Bolshevik, then the present union must go, and another debating society be founded on a sounder basis."

"But a debating society in a University town should be more than a social grazing ground for men. For better or for worse, women are now members of the University with equal rights, and they have a right to participate in a debating society which claims to be a central University institution."

The scheme had already received considerable support, said Mr. Briant recently. It was likely a meeting would be held in the near future.
